STAR FISH, OR FIVE FINGERS. Mr. Saunders, of the Oyster Commission, has left in our office some specimens of this rascally fish, that are making such have in the oyster beds. It is difficult to estimate the injury that has been done by the star fish, but it is thought that the destruction of diseases, and the deceptions practised upon the oysters, has not been less than 20,000 bush els; an ', unless the star fish disappears, the oystermen will hardly be willing to plant their beds. There is no known way of getting rid of them. The few that are caught are but a class of diseases, in all their forms, and to give very small proportion of the increase. In consequence of the losses sustained by the star fish, the bed-holders intend to ask the General Assembly to intermit the annual rent of ten dollars. The sum is small; but is considerable to those whose property has suffered so severely, and some of whom bave scarcely any thing left on the beds to be pro-

A pious old gentleman, one of the salt-ofthe-earth sort, went out in the field to catch a mare that was wont to bear him to town,-He moved on the most approved mode. He shook a measure of corn at her, to delude her into the belief that she was glad to get it; but she was not to be deceived by any such specious act. She would come nigh, and then dash off again, until the good man was fretted very badly. At last he got her in a corner among some briars, and made a dash at her, when she bounded over the wall, and left him sprawling among the bushes .-His Christian fortitude gave way at this, and gathering himself, he cried, "Oh hell"-The ejaculation passed his lips before he thought; but immediately conscious of its wickedness, he said-lolujah," and translated the profane word into a note of triumph! -Buston Evening Gazette.

STEEL PENS. Notwithstanding the immense number of steel pens used in this country, and to estimate the amount even by weight would be almost impossible, it is a strange fact that we depend upon England for our supply. The "Yankees," renowned for their ability to make any article that has ever been introduced into use, have not yet been able to form a steel pen fit to write with. About eighteen months since, some one of our countrymen commenced the manufacture of the article, but the attempt resulted, we believe, in a failure-at least, upon a trial in the Departments at Washington, it was found wanting, and east aside.

A VALUABLE INVENTION.

Printing in glass has been successfully accomplished by a gentleman in New York city. By a new process he is enabled to print letters and figures of various designs on glass in multi-colors, with a facility almost equal to ordinary printing on common paper. Labels can be printed by this process directly on bettles of any size and form. These have the appearance of having been placed there by the hand, and are indelible. Lettering on glass by the new process can be done at less than one-third the present cost. The inventor is about to apply for CANDIDATES.
